Professional Overview

Mr. Huber began his professional career as an entry level technician at an NBC network affiliate in Atlantic City, New Jersey. There he worked as a cameraman and video editor before moving to the opposite side of the camera to work as a reporter and host of the sports segment on the nightly news. Mr. Huber's broadcasting career included freelance work with ESPN and ABC radio. In 1987, Mr. Huber left broadcasting to accept a position at Bergwall Productions, a company specializing in curriculum-based filmstrip presentations for vocational schools.

In 1991, Mr. Huber established Video Active Productions, Incorporated. Video Active Productions initially created instructional videos by contract for Bergwall Productions, Conrail, the American Academy of Pediatrics and others. In 1997, Video Active Productions released its first independent production: Safe Active Play, a playground safety video. In 2003, the company made a full commitment to digital video production technologies with the development of Engine Performance. Engine Performance was released in 2004 and is a two disc DVD presentation that takes advantage of the DVD format by including English and Spanish audio and subtitle tracks, an interactive assessment tool and a pdf Instructor's Guide embedded on the discs. After the release of Engine Performance, Mr. Huber brought digital video production to the early care and education community releasing a number of DVD titles including Facing the Challenge. More recently, Mr. Huber is focused on online interactive programs, releasing video-based training programs on preventing obesity and challenging behaviors.
